KCKCC-Leavenworth Center offers credit and non-credit classes each semester. The Center opened in January 1988 as an alternative for local residents to the 25-mile drive to campus. The Center consists of 21 classrooms, which include science and computer laboratories. Qualified instructors teach the same courses that are offered on campus.

In August 2007, OnTrack, the non-credit adult basic education and GED preparation program, was added to the programs available at KCKCC-Leavenworth Center. This adult learning program is designed to improve skills and help students realize their educational dreams. After assessing students' level of preparation, the program is customized to individual student needs and includes employment skills training to prepare for a future career.

The Center is also available for use by area businesses for training and community organizations for meetings and activities. For additional information about the class schedule, programs, or facility usage contact Karalin McKain, Executive Director - 913-651-2111.
