University of Saint Mary Community Band Keeps the Patriot at Heart for Upcoming Performance

7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 26, 2005

(Leavenworth, Kan.)— The University of Saint Mary Community Band will present its Spring Concert at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 26 in Saint Joseph Dining Hall. The concert is free and open to the public. Saint Joseph Dining Hall is located on the University of Saint Mary Campus, 4100 South 4th Street, Leavenworth. Call 913-682-5151 extension 6320 for more information.

The program will open with a brass Fanfare by Buxtehude, which is followed by select woodwind and string ensemble playing an early 17 Century Sonata for seven solo instruments by Grillo. Other selections will include a transcription of Bach's "Sheep May Safely Graze" and "Second Suite in F" by Holst.

The second portion of the program features music for the American patriot at heart. Capsulated by a stirring salute to the armed forces, the second half of the concert will recognize all current and former members of the military in the audience.

The University of Saint Mary Community Band is made up of USM students, alumni, faculty and staff, as well as musicians from the area. It is directed by Freda Proctor, assistant professor of music.
