USM Stirs Up "A Little Fright Music" For Annual Halloween Concert 7 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 27, Xavier Theatre

(Leavenworth, Kan.)—Don those Halloween costumes a few days early for "A Little Fright Music"—the Saint Mary annual Halloween Concert presented by USM's department of fine arts-music—at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 27, in Xavier Theatre on the Leavenworth campus, 4100 South 4th Street.

The hour-long concert, featuring the performances of the University of Saint Mary Community Band and the USM Concert Chorale, is free and open to the public.

Some of the seasonal music will include "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" and "Night on Bald Mountain" featured in Disney's "Fantasia," and the theme from "The Addams Family." USM sophomore Jillian Warman will be the featured violin soloist in the band's rendition of "The Devil Went Down to Georgia." Members of the USM cheer squad will also perform a routine set to Michael Jackson's "Thriller."

The chorale and band members will be dressed in Halloween costumes, and the audience is encouraged to wear holiday-appropriate attire as well. The audience will be invited to join the choir in a pumpkin carol sing-along.

The night's events will also include a costume contest for children in fifth grade and below. Prizes will be awarded.
